

Figure 1. Left panel: Generalization predicted from a simple model that assumes a linear generalization function. A varied group (red positions 400 and 800, and a constant group (blue vertical line), trained from position 600. Right panel: if a Gaussian generalization function results in better generalization to positions close to 400 and 800 than does constant training at 600.